DIVERSE:

STTG: Good amount of birds today! Noticeable push of willow warblers and chiffchaffs in the first couple of rounds, with 12 of the former and 14 of the latter. Other highlights were a male pied flycatcher, the first for the year and the earliest for Ottenby! (The former earliest record was 19th of April) This now makes 3 earliest records this spring so far! A female blackcap was also an unexpected surprise.

AND: nothing caught.

Div: The lighthouse keepers joined the ringing in the early morning. The Ottenby kommitté held their meeting in the library. They had breakfast and lunch with us. ALD, KWL and JMS went to the ducktrap to blood-sample the lure ducks as part of the influenza project. Most of the station personnel joined to the duck trap to have a look around the southern and northern meadows to try to re-find two Ross's geese that were found, but it seems they moved north. On the bright side, VIV finally saw a great-grey shrike, a species she has never seen and been looking for the last few weeks. While at the duck trap we also worked on ziptying some sections that needed it. The wader and breeding passerine surveyor for this spring, Jochem Verweij, arrived today (JVJ. Bergschenhoek, The Netherlands). He will be staying until mid June. KWL made a lovely traditional french dinner for the station and the kommitté (kig ha farz).
